Many of us, whatever our field of work, fear that showing uncertainty can damage our image——and we may compensate by expressing overconfidence in an attempt to win trust. But in many situations people are willing to trust those who can admit they don't have a definitive answer. Recent studies found that communicating uncertainty and even admitting our mistakes is not harmful and can even be beneficial to trustworthiness. So, failure in "expertise" can be compensated by higher integrity and benevolence. When communicating uncertainty in a transparent way, we are perceived as less biased and willing to tell the truth.

(E) 书面表达。(6分) 得分：

读下面一则故事，用两句话给这个故事加上一个结尾，并用三句话写出你对老人的评价。

"Gosh! Give me back the meet!" says the old man. ~~[illegible]~~

I think the old man isn't clever. He didn't know what the young men was doing and give the young man some meat. And he didn't believe himself and his horse.

How is everything going? As you are interested in the Chinese customs at table. I am more than glad to expose you to the fantastic culture of China.

Generally speaking, guests are regarded as the centre on such an occasion. As a consequence, the host will lead the guests to their seats first. Besides, it's the guests who are supposed to try the first taste. What's more, as is known, it is typical of Chinese to use chopsticks and we all are accustomed to making no noise. Last but not least, a polite guest never forgets to express thanks for the warm treat.

As the old saying goes, do in Rome as the Romans do. When you pay a visit, bear in mind to respect the customs.

Yours truly,

Dear paul,

How are you? Glad to hear from you. It's an honour for me ntroduce the table manners in China to you.

With a history of more than 2,000 years. Chinese tradition eloped its own style. On the guests' arrival. the host first ld seat them politely. As you know, we use chopsticks to fter the courses are served. guests should taste firstly. having meals. It's forbidden to make noise, which is in Chinese customs. Finally the meals finished. guests t for the delicious dishes and considerate careness.

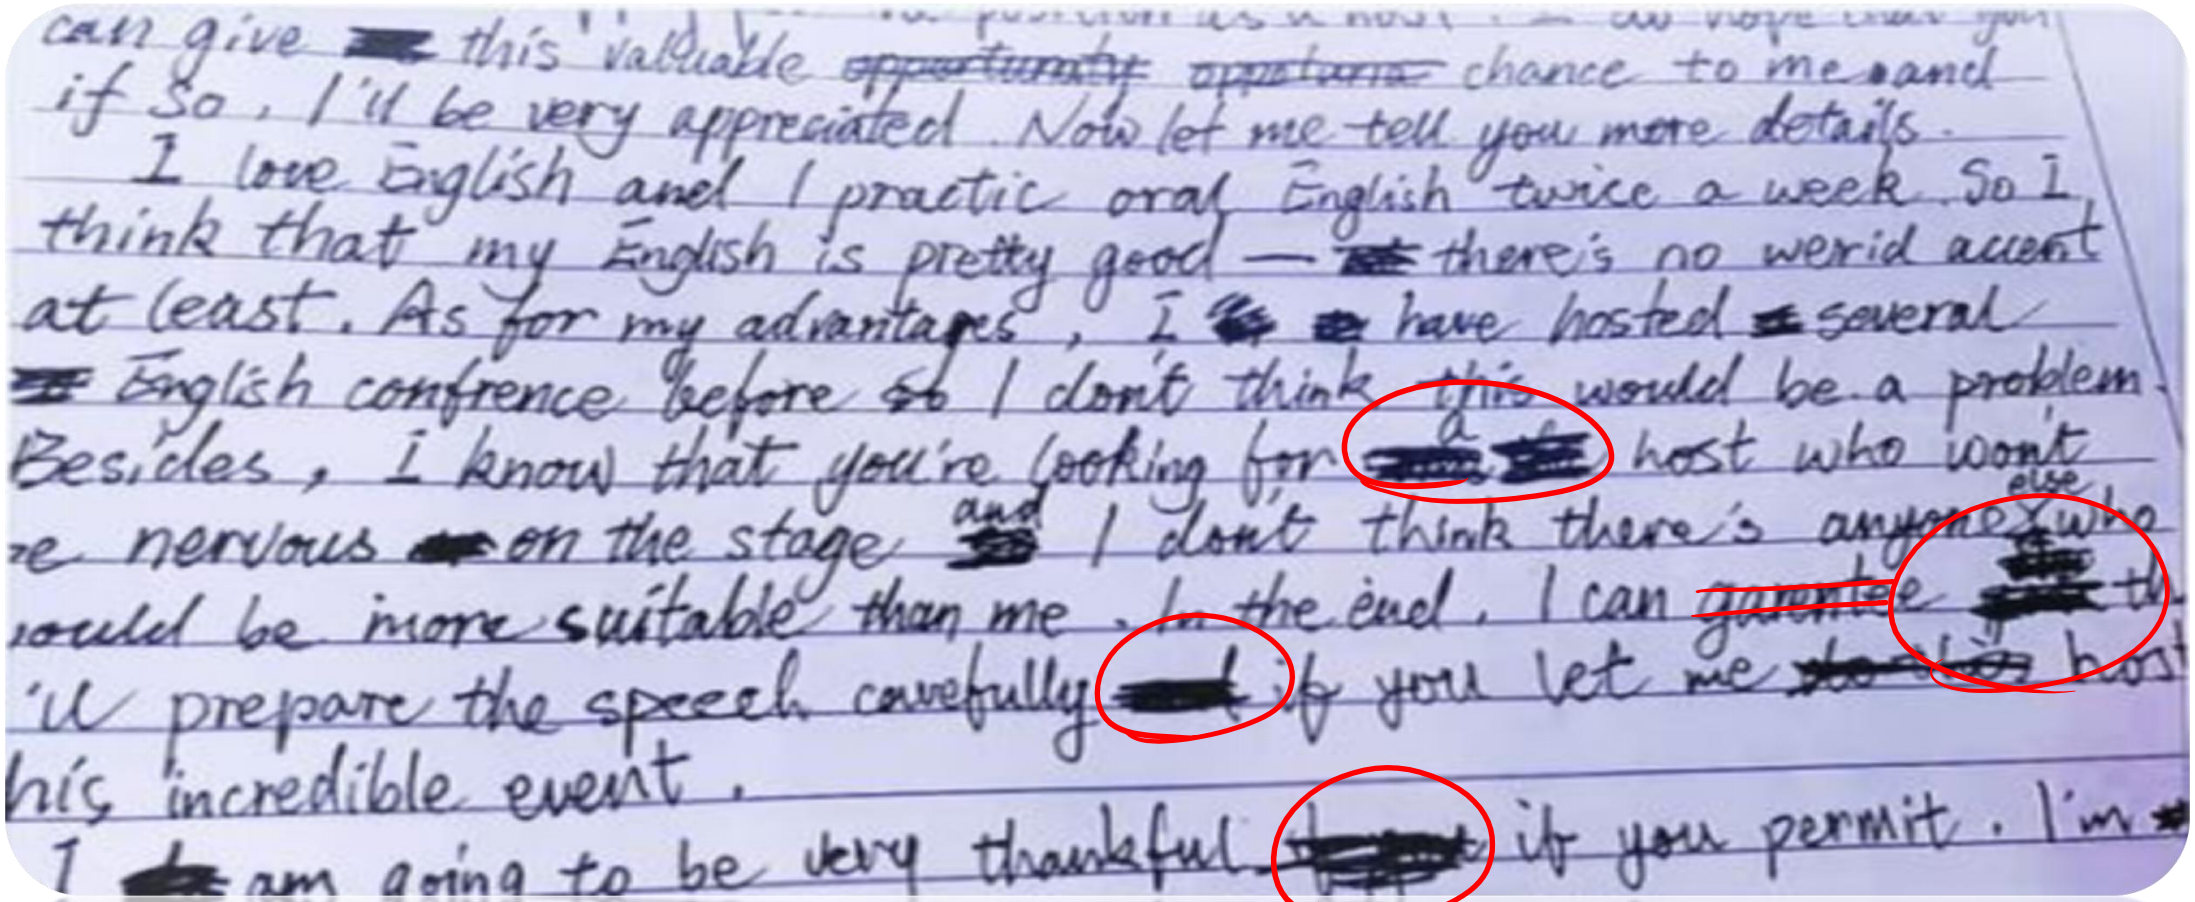

Table manners is only one drop of the Chinese culture Strange as it is to you, you should "do as the Romans do". you're interested. I'm pleased to introduce you more.

As is subtly portrayed in the cartoon, two tourists are taking sightseeing on a small boat while discarding their picnic leftovers casually into a lake. Unfortunately, the lake is already littered and teamed with flowing rubbish like plastic containers, fish-bones, banana peel, watermelon rind, bottles, tins, food wrappings, and so on. And below the drawing, there is a topic which says: "after" the travel or "me" in the travel.

From the portrayal, we can conclude that the painter wants to convey such a message: a good many scenic spots are flooded with visitors, who spoil the beauty of nature by creating and leaving behind
